

Your Friends at EternaTree® Present
The Follow-Up to Our
Wildly Poplar WhimmyDiddle
(the 2002 wooden toy we “borrowed” from the American heartland and passed off as our own)

This one has rubber bands and dowels - everything an EternaTree product should have (except maybe magnets.) And now it's yours!

Amaze friends and family alike. Encourage them to insert the dowel in such a way as to hook the rubber band. You (EternaTree confidant that you are) can demonstrate by pulling out the dowel and having it snap back.

Got it? If not, put on your thinking cap and try it a few more times.

Got it now? If not, as you did in the past whenever you had difficulties assembling or operating our products, call our 800 number.

Don't have the 800 number after all these years? Carefully open the sealed section below.

One of the traditional names for this toy is the “Idiot Stick” and it's well deserved. Of course you can't engage the rubber band with a stick that is too short to do so! But you can make your friends and family believe that it can be done.

Hold the ball between thumb and index finger, insert the stick all the way, rotate it precisely 88 degrees or so, pull it out exactly a couple of inches, squeeze the ball until it escapes.

As always, if you have any difficulties assembling or operating our product, don't hesitate to call our 800 number.
